STRATOS

look beyond

in a sphere above the ordinary Stratos looks beyond the city and lives in the heart of it

Four boutique residences in the center of Bangalore conceived by a team of international repute, Stratos bridges the gap between contemporary architecture and timeless living. In a city where big development is equated with number of units and common amenities have come to define luxury, the grandeur of Stratos lies in its minimalism - in scale, size and spirit.

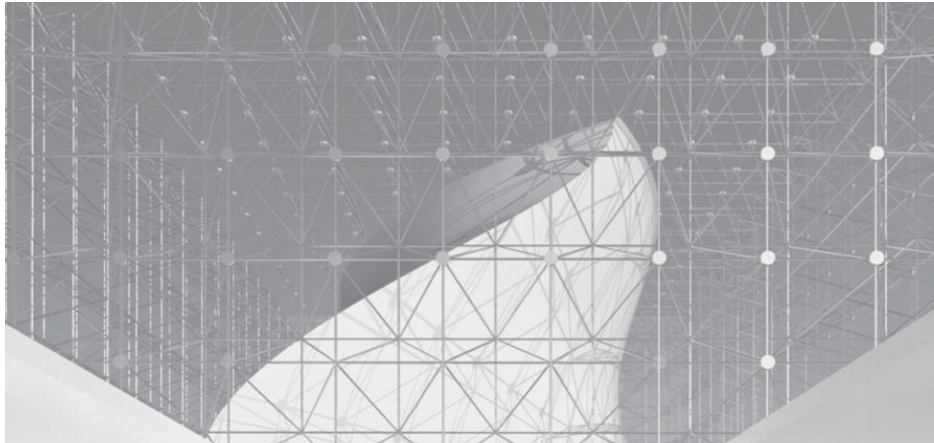

DESIGN IS THE DIFFERENCE

...between functional & beautiful,
expensive & exclusive;
between a condominium
& a Stratos life.

At Assetz Homes, we are driven not by the need to create more, but to design better. We understand that every home we build has the power to enrich the life of not just those who live in it, but that of the city it is a part of.

There is no single formula for real estate, but there is a science to it. Different combinations of location, development strategy (identifying and building for the right target group) , design (architecture, interiors and master planning), construction (material + technology) and asset enhancement (property management services) engineer different kinds of spaces. We balance these variables to create platinum living spaces, whether it's luxurious golf villas or exclusive condominiums.

Stratos is the first of our boutique homes in the center of Bangalore. The reserve of a select few, Stratos offers its residents a higher strata of living and Bangalore, an iconic landmark.

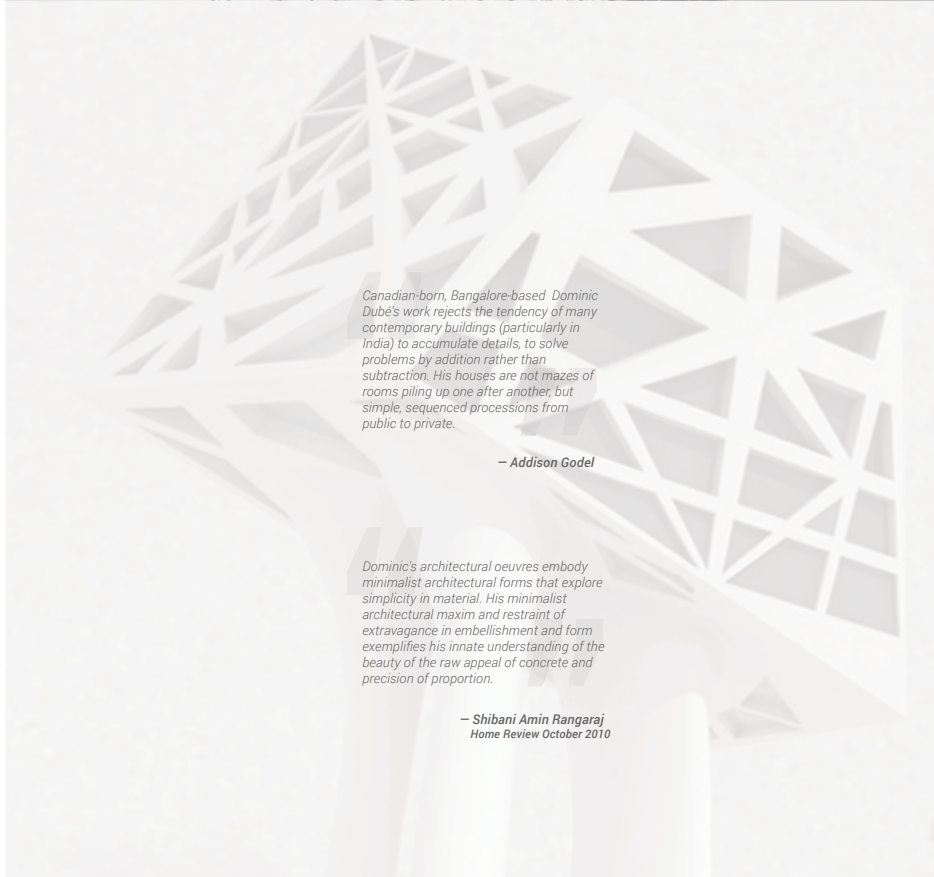

Canadian-born, Bangalore-based Dominic Dubé's work rejects the tendency of many contemporary buildings (particularly in India) to accumulate details, to solve problems by addition rather than subtraction. His houses are not mazes of rooms piling up one after another, but simple, sequenced processions from public to private.

— Addison Godel

Dominic's architectural oeuvres embody minimalist architectural forms that explore simplicity in material. His minimalist architectural maxim and restraint of extravagance in embellishment and form exemplifies his innate understanding of the beauty of the raw appeal of concrete and precision of proportion.

“With Stratos I set out to create a contemporary hôtel particulier”

What the chateau is to the countryside, the hôtel particulier is to the city. In the elite arrondissements of Paris, the upper echelons of 17th century French society lived in their own hôtel particulier or private mansion — exclusive, elegant and an architectural tour de force.

Stratos is inspired by the essence of the hôtel particulier and informed by the context of Bangalore. A minimalist aesthetic replaces classical influences, technology pushes the structural envelope and function is chiselled into a seemingly free-floating form with a striking interplay of concrete and crystal, the inside and the outside. We invite you to discover its design detail.

DDIR is the award winning architecture practice of French-Canadian Dominic Dubé. Dominic (principal designer of STRATOS) draws from over 30 years of experience across Canada, Italy, Mexico, Thailand, Greece, France, USA and India in projects that range from intimate spaces to urban planning schemes. Seamlessly integrating architecture and design with art (nature), technology (structure), life (light) and culture (spirit), every one of his buildings bears his inimitable signature of a painterly minimalist.

DESIGN DETAIL

At the core The central pillar

An unadorned yet imposing concrete pillar forms the structural core of Stratos. Floor plates are suspended from beams that extend from the top of the pillar. The cantilevered construction lifts the building off the ground, freeing up space at the ground level and giving Stratos its distinctive floating form. The pillar and its geometric capital accentuate the contemporary minimal aesthetic of each condominium.

Inside outside The crystal facade

The facade is an alternating rhythm of floor plates and clear glass. Natural light pours in with the extensive use of glass, allowing an enhanced perception of space and a close dialogue with lush trees that flank the property. While glass walls blur the line between the inside and the outside, multiple layers of screens afford privacy and keep sun and sound in or out, as the situation demands.
